My wife and I represent True Companion Dog Training. I've graduated from National K9 School for Professional Dog Trainers and attend annual behavior courses at Cornell and Tufts University. I've also gained practical animal experience by working on many different farms and ranches. Our love for training animals has resulted in 26 years experience and over 5,000 dogs educated.

At True Companion, we concentrate on the mastery of basic skills. We don't call it "obedience training," because obedience is merely a fraction of what goes into a well-balanced dog. The concepts we teach allow them to develop patience, self-control and the proper responses to their owner's commands.

The best time to teach your pup is while they are young. Establishing good behaviors is better than correcting bad ones. Fortunately, all dogs have the ability to learn with the proper teacher. We can help bridge the communication gap between you and your family pet.

True Companion is not a kennel, but a small private farm. We handle a maximum of eight dogs per training session to maximize individual personal interaction. While being trained, we pay strict attention to their dietary needs and well-being. The farm is setup to allow for training on/off the leash, proper socialization with other dogs and animals as well as family quiet time.

Let us help you choose the proper training program for you and your family pet. We offer private lessons or farm courses. We tailor the program to meet everyone's individual needs. Our goal is to make sure that your family pet does not become the family problem.

At True Companion we help ALL dogs. We also work with several rescue groups and offer discounts for adopted pets. A subject close to our heart is the Autistic Therapy Dog Program. Let us show you first hand how animals can help these special children.
